Hi Dad, As you know it's been almost 6 years of your spirit living within us. As your daughter I wanted to say I love and miss you everyday. Thank you for the time we had although shorter then I would have ever wanted. We all miss you, mom, Sanomraj and all the people you ever touched with you infectious personality. I live my life in hopes that one day I can make my family as proud as you made yours. I'm in college and studying psychology to hopefully help many people who struggle with mental illnesses. Everything I ever do and will do is for you. I will never forget you, thank you for all the hard work you put in to give your family every opportunity to excel. You will live on forever in my heart. I love you

I remember Amrik Singh Bal from my High school Featherstone. Last I saw Amrik was in 1984. I remember him very well. Very Bright, kind and Funny. I met a old school friend, whom had also been at school with Amrik and had met at a reunion about 5 years ago. I was really taken back and saddened to hear of this loss. I was hoping for a reunion in the uk to catch up with old colleagues from school. Looks like I can only know cherish old school memories of Amrik. R.i.p Asim Atlas Sarb

Was heart breaking when Mohan Batal & Hergodeep Bandal told me. I remember Amrik from our school days at Featherstone early 1980's. His sheer determination to do better & achieving his goals is what I can remember. His kind ways & how he would laugh & be engaged in conversation with everyone. Always talked to everyone & about anything. Well dressed & always had his hair neat & tidy, a proper gent. He will be sadly missed. My sincere condolences to his family.. May his soul rest in peace.. I was so greatly saddened to hear about Amrik. I had the privilege of meeting and working with Amrik at Cable & Wireless in London and later when Amrik moved to the US. I will always remember Amrik for his wonderful sense of humour, his generous spirit and the warmest of smiles. His optimism and enthusiasm was infectious and his love and pride for his family was ever present. A truly wonderful soul. My sincerest condolences for your loss..Helena

I am terribly sorry for your loss of Amrik. I got to know Amrik in Dallas while working for Nokia. Since we were both commuting from other cities, Amrik and I shared many dinners together. His energetic nature, friendly smile and great sense of humor made those business trips great fun. I treasure those memories as Amrik's many friends do as well. Rest in Peace my friend.

I was so shocked and sorry to hear about Amrik. My memory of him, having worked with him for over two years at IHG in Atlanta, including sharing a suite with him for a while was that he was a real force of nature, very clever, quick witted and entertaining. He seemed very loving and devoted and I recall that he was always very excited to call home via Skype to stay in touch with you. I made plans to see him in LA earlier in the year when he came to CA and visited his nephew the dentist, but unfortunately they didn't work out. I and many of his other colleagues will miss him. Amrik was a very unique person. His enthusiasm, humor, and joie de vivre will never be forgotten. We had the privilege of working Amrik at Cable & Wireless in London and later in the U.S. Despite divergent career paths and new lives in different states, we spoke of Amrik and the good old days often. So many memories, so many laughs. A tour de force personality, life was never dull when Amrik was in the room. Gosh, what a loss. Our deepest condolences to Sukhi, his children and family.

Karen Terry lit a candle in honor of Amrik.

I had the privilege of working with Amrik over the last few months. His optimism, energy and professionalism endeared him to us, and he quickly became a valued member of our work family. It is a testament to Amrik as a person, that even though we knew him for only a short time, we are so saddened by his loss, and feel the void he has left. I performed a Random Act of Kindness today in his honor, as I hope that would make him smile~

Working with Amrik in Atlanta for 3 years was an honor and privilege. Always upbeat, always looking at the glass as full, not half-full, and always wanting to lift your spirits when times were difficult. We spoke a lot about our heritage and how important it was to honor it. I stayed one Sunday night in DC at his home after attending a wedding, and met his lovely wife and kids. They could not be more gracious. his presence will be sorely missed.

There is not much more that can be said about how positive and cheerful Amrik would be. He would lift any gathering he was part of, and made all our lives a little brighter and better. That is why the loss is so shocking; such kings among men are meant to go on forever.
