On This Day, There once was a noble knight, who roamed the forest, in search of his next adventure. His name was Louis. His belongings on his back, he did carry. In his heart, he carried the love of God, his family, and the wonderful friends he had met, in his many journeys. He was blessed in many ways, yet chose to roam the land, free. Facing many battles along his journeys, yet, always finding peace and laughter, as if it followed him like his shadow. The noble knight, on this day, like any other day, sought an adventure. One he could share with many of his friends, with laughter and good cheer. On this day, with the spirit in his step, he set out to seek, what he could find. On this day..... he set out, like any other day, with the love of God in his heart, his family, and his friends. Having stumbled through the forest, feeling tired from his long day's journey, he came upon a beautiful meadow, with a stream filled with cool, clean water. The knight, knelt down, cupped his hand, and brought the water to his lips. When suddenly, he felt he wasn't alone. He quickly stood up, and turned around, to find leaping towards him, a tiger he did see!! The noble knight Louis wrestled the tiger and won! But the tiger's mate attacked him while doing a victory dance. As the knight, having fought his last battle, fell to the ground in defeat, a warm breeze came from the meadow, embracing the noble knight, before he hit the ground. It was this day, the hands of God, reaching for him!! So let it be written, so let it be said, that on this day.... The noble knight Louis, would begin on his greatest adventure, forever.... To Louis, the closest friend I've ever had, the friend I've shared the most hilarious, scary, fun and life-changing memories with. You said (strangely) often that we were Stinebaugh & Stieglbauer, S&S, commonly mistaken for brothers many times, and two guys that had no problem playing that for all it was worth :D You are totally irreplaceable, and totally unforgettable. You were like a brother to me, sometimes a really bad one, but at others, acted more like a brother to me than my real brother. You tested me to no end, and were one of the only people that could bring out real anger in me, but no matter what you did, I could never not take you back and pick up right where we left off. I wish I could have helped you more. Marc Stinebaugh

Louis was my roommate here in Leesburg, VA for awhile and I must say that he was quite an animated soul. He wasn't much on showing extreme emotion, but with what he didn't say in words, you could definitely read the expressions on his face. And through his tough, stubborn exterior, he had a big heart of gold and that certain smile that you couldn't help but smile back at. Louis was more than just a roommate to me....he was a best friend of mine and I considered him as family. Even though I understood his wanting to move out of Leesburg, I hated to see him go because we had gotten so close. Between our nights of bowling & beer drinking and our all-nighters of playing 'World Of Warcraft' while making fun of our fellow roommate & landlord, there was never a dull moment with Louis. I thank him for being himself and for accepting me as family too. To Roger, Laura, Teresa, and everybody: Please know that I always thought very highly of Louis and I will always miss him deeply. He made it a point to appreciate life whenever possible, and I'm very thankful to have been able to share a part of that with him. And if there's anything I can possibly do for y'all, please ask me. And Louis.....I love ya man. You can't have my beer, but I love ya. :)Seam

Louis was around 12 when his family moved next door to me. I remember that one day he dropped by and saw my record albums. In total seriousness he said "I've never seen such big CDs before. Where did you get them?" I have told that story often with many smiles and a fond remembrance of an interested little boy. Louis, I will always remember the child you were....Marcia Weikle

To Everyone,I will never forget the wonderul times I spent w/ my nephew, he was funny, witty and very inquisitive. He was a ball of energy that you always kept your eye on :) Louis made me laugh so much and made me mad quite often, but, in a good way like a child saying their first bad word or a puppy chewing up your slipper, it was hard to stay mad, I will think of him often and never forget the joy he gave me.Roger, Laura, Teresa, Ginger and family, I am truely sorry for you loss and pain. I will always be there and love you forever,Tawnya
