I will miss listening to his wisdom, his funny stories, and his cranky remarks. He was like a grandfather to me and my kids. When Rich and Chris got married, our families truly became an extension of each others. Mr. S. was always there for anyone who may have needed anything, including a hot water heater in the middle of the night. You are so loved, and will be sadly missed Mr. S. I got to know Bill when he lived at Westmaren in Ashburn. I loved his NY accent. He had tons of stories from his days in NY and he knew how to keep you glued to every word. He was devoted to his wife and cared for her non-stop. He was an expert tradesman at carpentry, plumbing and painting. His greatest asset was his personality. He was fun to be around. Great guy through and through.

Mr.S was an excellent example of what an excellent husband and father should be. I will always remember him as one of the finest men I had the privilege of knowing. May God bless him and may he have the peace and happiness he so righteously deserves.
