Peace and love to the entire Forgues family. Nick was a sweet and fun person. He was my classmate at St. B's and we were both "walkers". I remember walking home alongside him and chatting. He was easy to talk to and loved to laugh...and what a smile. Prayers for all who are missing Nick.

Today I found a bit of comfort with your family. I still don't have the words. Nicholas —my sweet lovely man. Always reminding me to take a break. Reminding me the power of being engaged and present. You made everything something to look forward to, even doing dishes together. Your voice always calmed me down and your laugh always brought joy to my heart. I am going to cherish the time we shared. While my life won't be the same without you in it, I will still feel your warmth. I know you're up there enjoying a Coke and Choripan. I love you so much and will miss you all the time Babe.

I'm sorry to Nick's family for your incredible loss. I met Nick during our MBA program in 2007. He was tech savvy and business minded and he helped those around him get better and grow. He was outspoken and had a sense of humor that could make you laugh til it hurt. He was a lot of things to a lot of people, but he was mostly a good friend. He helped me grow as a person, a student, a future business leader. Some of the things he taught me have gotten me to where I am today, and I'm grateful to have known him. Prayers that you fly high, Nick. I'd me remiss if I didn't say that it feels you are gone too soon.

I am so sorry to hear of this loss...My thoughts and prayers are with your entire family.I heard this news yesterday and this is probably my 10th draft of this post...I am at al loss for words.I first met Nick in 2007 when we both attended William and Mary to obtain our MBA. We were not on the same project team but we immediately became really close friends. We used to talk almost day for over 3 years.I would not have survived that MBA program without my friend Nick. I have such fond memories of the program, his wit, and traveling to Brazil and Argentina together (we shared a hotel room the whole way). I just remember how excited Nick was when we landed in Buenos Aires...he was home.I want to share the strongest and ever lasting memory that I have of my conversations with Nick...My third child was born on July 16, 2009. It was a scheduled procedure. The night before Nick called me and I told him I was freaking out...he told me to calm down... Then, in classic full honesty Nick form, he asked me what we were going to name our child. I told him we were going to name him Kevin. There was a long silence on the other end of the line, at which point Nick stated, "that name sucks!!!"My third child was born the next day and his name is Nicholas Anthony Ramage.I will forever miss you and may memory be a blessing to everyone who knew you in life.Godspeed and RIP my buddy!

My deepest condolences to Xander and his family. I knew Nick as his alias NicoNights on Xbox. We met 5 years ago in this game called Destiny. I have always enjoyed his company, humor, and love of music. We bonded instantly (since we both were born in the 1900's) with his love of cheesy movie lines, such as, "Hey Griswald, where you gonna put a tree that big?". He was a kind kindred spirit always willing to lend a hand when you needed help with anything. His voice will be missed throughout our online community. Godspeed and til we meet again, eyes up guardian!

To the Forgues family, our sincerest condolences. On my first business trip to the US, on my first first day at the Reston TWli office, Nick invited me out after work. We bonded over the Dave Matthews Band and other things we had in common. That weekend I found myself at a Dave Matthews Band concert, along with Nick and 80,000 others, and a friendship was born. Many trips (in both directions between the US & UK followed), he was my best man, he was one-of-kind, and he is hugely missed. David & Denna Thomas

Nick and his team took me in when I needed a home to finish my MBA program. We were friends immediately, He had huge heart and even bigger personality. He could make anyone laugh. That coupled with his (sometimes brutal) honesty, made him a joy to be around and we kept up after school. He often talked about Zan, and I know how much he loved him, and how proud he was of his son. I'll miss Nick and that big infectious smile. RIP buddy.

Jorge and Maria We were so touched by the service today and the memories you shared about Nick. Kindness, adventurous, fashionable and intelligent were wonderful qualities and your memories of those were heartfelt and loving. Nick loved his expensive Jordans just as you love your expensive bikes. Like father, like son. Your Irish blessing touched our hearts and was a fitting farewell to your beloved son. We love you. Dave and Joey.

Jorge and Maria, we were so touched by Nicks service today and all the stories and memories that were shared. Kindness, adventurous, fashionable, and intelligent encompassed his life and your version and memories of those characteristics were absolutely wonderful. A man who loved his shoes, but then just like dad who loves his bikes! We are praying you find warmth and peace with each other and family during these difficult days. Your Irish blessing and farewell touch our hearts. We love you. Dave and Joey
