Beni, I am so sorry that you lost your wife, Erin. As her father, I have so many regrets that we moved away from each other and saw so little together; however, every time we talked I was so pleased. I can remember being sick in a hospital bed and having Erin call and check on me. We both cried and cried together. I always felt like she loved me, and I hope she felt the same. I know that what happened between myself and her mom had to devastate her, and I will never forget how she cried when I had to tell you we were splitting up. Yet over the years, I always heard and felt the love from her and hope I at least was able to let her know that I did care. I listened to Sal's wife express sorrow of the difficult times she had over the years, and I know I was part of those trying times, but I thank you for being there and helping her through it. I know she deeply cared for you. You are a good man, and the two of you were a match made in heaven. I loved Erin, and Ben, I love you too. If I can help you down the road please know I'm here for you. And again, thank you for all you did to help her, when she became so sick. I could not be there today. I tested positive for Covid and while not very sick, I did not want to infect anyone else there at her funeral or in a plane coming over. I cried through most of the ceremony, but also felt it was done very well to help to remember her as she was and be glad and proud she was my daughter. Thanks Beni, Erin's Dad

My Cousin Erin was a light in this dark world. A real gem of a human being. It makes my heart light to see other messages on here from people who experienced her beautiful self, and found her to be as exquisite as I always thought she was. In truth, as kids, there were times I was jealous of her- I swore my parents and brother loved her more than me. It was a huge loss on my part that we lived so far apart when we were older-- I missed out on being around her. She was a true gift sent by God! My heart hurts now at losing her, but what Joy it will be when I get to see you again in Heaven my Sweet & Precious Cousin Erin!

I remember so well when Erin and Joanie made their first Teen Mania mission trip to Costa Rico all those years ago, and all the times we all shared together at Halpine. My heart breaks for her dear husband and family, but also rejoices that we know she is with our Savior. Love and prayers from Joy and Carl Brill 🙏❤️

Erin is one of the kindest and sweetest people I know. She has the gentlest and warming heart, a contagious smile that lit up the room, and in her presence people felt safe and they could trust in her. I know in a time of need Erin was there for me ❤️ She gave me guidance, words, and time that no one else could. Erin truly has a special place in my heart for showing me her compassion and dedication to helping myself and others.

My sweet Erin....our lives came to a halt when you left us. Thank God your life will always be stamped in our hearts. You left a strong imprint on everyone you ever met with your kindness, compassion and just a loving spirit. I will always remember that sweet, sweet smile you had and how you could light up a room when you entered it. You will always be a part of all of us and when we get sad all we have to do is think of you and your antics and that will life our hearts. Will always love you now and forever. Heaven gained an Angel Erin when you left us. When you became part of our family, I gained the daughter I always wanted. You were a person people could depend on in all situations. Whatever you did you did in private never looking for praises from people, you did it because you had true love in your heart. My hope is you can see/hear how much you meant to people as they share their experience with you. I cannot begin to understand the pain in my heart with you gone now but I do know this, we will meet again.

Today my world has changed forever, Today I lost you, you have gone unto Heaven, today I lost my best friend, I lost the love of my life, I lost you Erin. With you leaving you have taken the best of me... my heart, it will never be the same again, there will always be a very large part of my heart that cannot be replaced. God has taken the very best of what the world has to offer you. I don't want to say goodbye, because I know that someday I will be with you again. Until we meet again Erin, I love you and will always miss you. You made me whole With you leaving, there is void of kindness that cannot be refilled, you have shown kindness to everyone around you, you have left a trail of hope. And I believe God needed that in heaven. Erin, I love you, and know that its ok, myself and our family will miss you dearly. Please don't worry about us, just fulfill what God needed you for. Till we meet again Love Beni
