“ I know we had our share of ups and downs.... Disagreements & good times.... Road trips and them some. Our chapter spent together was quite a run but you gave me one of the greatest gift ever my 1st born bka your "daddys baby". You always teased at how much she is u from the top of her head to tip of her toes!!! She may be 10 now but she is ALL YOU. She loves you more than anything the same as you loved her. I pray you rest easy but don't forget to drop in and remind her you love her and how proud you are of her like you always have. Rest easy King Jofi Jofa. I'll make sure she keeps making you proud 🙏❤️

“ This is the hardest thing i have ever gone through in my life. Duane has been in my life for 10 years. Through up and downs he has always been there. I can truly say I LOVE THIS MAN! He has pushed me to do so much in life and im forever grateful. We were growing and building our future together. Building our credit buying a house looking into investing in a business buying cars we didn't need bt wanted lol. We had a lil family. He loved his girls and so did I and i will always continue to. He was a protector friend comedian provider n my life. Baby i will NEVER forget you. My dad always said that's my son n law n my aunts and uncles be like where my nephew they talked to him more than me!!! Im so glad you were in my life I love u forever baby and like i always say I LOVE U MORE N I MEAN IT

“ Duane was the cutest baby. We had a lot of time to bond early in those early days in West VA. My sister and Lamont entrusted his care to me when he was first born and I gladly accepted that honor. They had to work and it was Duane me and the shot gun those long day's in West VA. He grew into a strong willed toddler with a big personality. When Duane was age 3 ,I would stay with Karen and drive Duane and Ashley to Carolyn's every morning for babysitting. He was a good big brother. Then came Kindergarten. They wasn't ready for Duane! The issue was he was so smart . He was bored and with that sense of humor ...they said he was the class clown. Well that's a trait a few of his his cousins had also .. Jay and Travis . Karen baby sat Jay for me and Raymond and I kept Duane and Ashley for her . He never gave us any trouble . Duane was always respectful and with good manners . Duane was so athletic in high school . I would go to his football games and all you heard was name over the loud speaker . We we're proud of him . Duane had the most beautiful eyes and his smile would light up any room . I see that is his daughters. What a blessing we have them . He told me how proud he was of his girls and how he wanted to be here to see what great things he knew they both will accomplish. He was just all about taking care of his family. He was enjoying this time in his life with Quetta, his home , he loved his car. He talked about his car like it was a wifee. He wanted me to go for a drive to see how smooth the ride was . He worked hard so he could be a good provider. He would always say he wanted to have me and his Uncle Raymond come for a visit to see his home . Duane was such a hard worker, he was trying to get up out of his sick bed to work . My sister would have to threaten him with calling in the Warden , that's the nickname they call me when some act right needs to happen ...other wise I'm (Aunt Tonya). Or calling his Aunt Sharon ... I don't know her nickname but he would straighten up if she called also . Well Nephew, your job done here is well done . We are all do proud of you and your accomplishments. Our Father in Heaven has called you home. Il'll miss the calls to just see how I am doing or what we are up to . We all will miss your visits to town and sleep overs . Even the snoring we would joke about . We will never forget you as you made the world a bright place with so many great memories. Love you like my own . Rest in Peace. Aunt Tonya

“ My prayers and condolences goes out to Duane's entire family! Duane and my son Dyrone was best of friends and when my son passed on October 4, 2020, Duane made a trip to visit me to show his love and support. I am so saddened to know now that that was the last time I would be able see his lovely smile.

He was telling how him and my son first met and had stayed friends every since day one. He was enjoying and laughing to be able to think back and tell stories about all the fun times they both had together. How I wish I could see them both joking and laughing again together one more time.

I know that GOD has plans ... knowing that they both are in heaven together acting up... puts a smile in my heart.

Love,

“ For reasons beyond those that our feeble minds can understand; God has called you home to be amongst His arsenal of Angels. We dare not question His urgent need of you. Your passing is what I liken to a horrible nightmare that I cannot wake up from and a harsh reminder that tomorrow is promised to no one. I believed that you had many years of life ahead of you because there was so much more that life had in store for you. So much more to see and experience. You were supposed to be around for your daughters' graduation from high school, college, walk them down the aisle, come visit your first grandchild in the hospital nursery and all those monumental moments of one's life. While I know that you will not be there for those moments in the flesh. I trust that you will be there in spirit and in our hearts. Save a spot for me in the Kingdom for the day that we meet again. We love you and will forever miss you; all the while sharing memories of you that warm our hearts.

“ My cousin ,Duane/Dee, was gifted with a 'Powerful Presence' that left a 'Deep impression' on many.. I can speak for myself, & what I've witnessed with others (& I'm sure they can say the same).. He stood out & was without a doubt a favorite to many.. He was solid, caring, animated, observant, ambitious, hilarious, adventurous, with a street mentality (just to name some) .. You always knew you were either gonna laugh, live it up, as well as learn somethings along the way from him.. Even as a kid, he was advanced & had the ability of reaching & teaching others whether older or younger.. GOD gave him that 'glow' & it showed clearly that he had purpose & that he most definitely left his mark.. My wife only met you one time, but I've talked about you so much that she feels like she's known you from birth Lol.. And your presence WILL live on because you were saved by Our FATHER In Heaven before HE turned the street lights on for you to come Home.. But we know as well that HE gives you the privilege to be by our sides at any given time..So I will continue to speak out loud to you like I've been doing these past days, cousin.. The Love 'never' dies, & your soul will 'forever live', My Soulja
Cuz, Larry Thompson
